Ambulance board could hire consolidation consultant

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — The Lincoln County Ambulance Board has voted to look into hiring a consultant to help consolidate ambulance service, though the board's chairman says he is dead set against the plan.

The board voted 5-0 Monday night in favor of a motion to have board members Naren James and Bob Floro research consultants and return to the board with proposals for service.

James, who made the motion, said he would seek out consultants who would provide at least one year of consulting services for no more than $30,000.

"We are wrestling with some serious issues," James

"We are wrestling with some serious issues. We can't just sit and have things happen and react to them. There's no doubt the current coverage ... leaves a lot to be desired."

said, referring to the current lack of a functioning ambulance service on the west side of the county. "We can't just sit and have things happen and react to them.

"There's no doubt the current coverage ... leaves a lot to be desired."

Floro, who seconded James' motion, said he would like to look into consultants who could help the county decrease administrative costs, increase the quality of service county-wide, develop a structure that would support ambulance service and provide something of a road map for the county to follow.

James said while his motion set $30,000 as the maximum amount that he and Floro would consider when researching consultants, he was not asking for board approval to spend any money.

Crash in Lincoln kills Yosemite man

HUSTONVILLE — One man died and another suffered serious injuries in a head-on crash Monday night in Lincoln County.

Police said two pickup trucks collided about 9 p.m. along U.S. 127, just past Old Liberty Road.

Lincoln County Deputy Coroner Tony Floro said Jeffrey Williams, 56, of Yosemite, was pronounced dead at the scene. Another driver, Christopher Jaems Broschious, 36, of Mount Sterling, was airlifted to the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center in Lexington.

Williams' body was taken to Frankfort to the state medical examiner's office for a post-mortem examination.

Details about the crash were unavailable from Kentucky State Police on Tuesday. Trooper Robert Purdy, spokesman for the KSP post in Richmond, said the southbound truck crossed the centerline and struck the northbound one head-on. The vehicle heading north traveled off the road and hit an embankment.

Lincoln County sheriff's deputies and KSP troopers spent several hours investigating the crash, which shut down U.S. 127 for much of the night.

Trooper Albert La Grange, an accident reconstructionist from the Richmond post, is working to determine what caused the crash.

Officials review disaster response during snow storms

By Kendra Peek
kpeek@centralkynews.com

STANFORD — The winter storms of February and March cost Lincoln County more than $383,745.

That's not the final number, said Don Gilliam, director of the Lincoln County emergency management agency. In fact, he said, it will likely go up.

"Our threshold in Lincoln County is about $88,000," he said to a room of about 12 other Stanford and Lincoln County agencies who took part in a weather debriefing on Tuesday afternoon. "If it goes over that, that taxes our ability to be able to not only pay for it, but to respond."

The agencies in attendance included officials with the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, Stanford Fire Department, Stanford EMS, Lincoln County Road Department and more.

"There are things we could have done better, but at least we got by — and we did get by. I think everybody did what they needed to do to get us through this," he said.

Passing out an after action report, Gilliam encouraged officials with all the agencies to fill out the forms.

"I would just like to know, specifically, what areas you think we can do better in. There always are," he said. "The best thing that came out of this was our communications."

The Emergency Operations Center received 188 total calls, but Gilliam said more came through other sources.

"That's in no way all of the calls we got," he said. There were times, Gilliam said, the center had to be unmanned while they were out assisting people, which would send the calls to the Bluegrass 911 Center.

Report details collision involving Lincoln school bus

By Todd Kleffman
tkleffman@centralkynews.com

An accident last month in which four Lincoln County students were slightly injured occurred when a pickup truck crossed over the center line and struck a school bus.

That's the conclusion of an investigation by Lincoln Deputy Ryan Kirkpatrick into the Feb. 9 crash on Norris Road south of Hustonville.

According to Kirkpatrick's report, Matthew T. Shofner, 21, of Waynesburg, was westbound when his pickup traveled into the eastbound lane, hitting the bus that had come to a stop after driver Frank Vanoy had steered it off the road to try to avoid the collision.

Shofner's truck left skid marks 44 feet long, compared to 9 feet of skid left by the bus, the report states.

There were nine students on the bus when the accident occurred about 4:15 p.m.

Two students, Kyndra Turpin, 9, and Danielle Rogers, 15, both of Standford, suffered minor injuries and were transported to Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center by Stanford EMS for treatment, the report states. Two other students who were also shaken up, Owen and Ryan Rowland of Standford, were taken to the hospital by private vehicle.

Shofner was not charged as a result of the collision, Kirkpatrick said.

Lincoln school board renews superintendent's contract

Lincoln Board of Education members Denny Hogue, left, and Marvin Wilson, right, exchanged words during a March 12 school board meeting. Hogue suggested there may have been discussions about what action to take on the superintendent's contract outside of public meetings, but Wilson denied any illegal behavior.

STANFORD NAZARENE CHURCH NEWS

By Buford Edwards II

Our mission at Stanford Nazarene Church is to share the gospel message of Jesus Christ to all the world and to be a place of healing and hope to all in need. Come as you are, Jesus will meet you there.

This past Sunday we continued our new series titled “Jesus the Storyteller,” chronicling the story of Jesus as told through Mark. This week we looked at “What Kind of Ground Are You” from Mark 4.

Sunday night was another wonderful time of singing, testifying and sharing from the Word of God as Youth Pastor, Bro. Dennis Hasty shared the message the Lord laid on his heart.

The Biggest Loser Challenge continues to roll on. Come join us at 6:15 p.m. to weigh in and fellowship as we share some practical weight loss advice and a good time of fun.

Join us Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. for our “Book Club.” We are currently working through a study on the Book of Daniel. The youth also have powerful services as well as classes for our children. It’s a busy place on Wednesday, come check it out.

THE YOUTH NEED YOU! The Youth Group continues to raise funds in their goal to reach $3,000 to attend TNT (Top Nazarene Talent)@ TNU in Nashville, Tenn., representing the Kentucky District Church of the Nazarene. They are currently selling Old Kentucky Chocolate candy bars, Rada items, and taking any/all donations. If you can help out you can contact the church.

The church is also working hard on year two of the “Five Year Plan.” We are actively raising funds to purchase a church van and pay off the debt on the fellowship hall. If you would like to donate to the cause, you can drop off a donation at any service or even mail in a donation. Just remember to write “Five Year Plan,” somewhere (memo field of check or envelope of cash) in order for it to be properly designated.

Mark your calendars and plan to join us on Friday, April 3 at 7 p.m. for a special Good Friday communion service. We will be meeting in the fellowship hall and all are welcome.

We are hosting a community Easter egg hunt on Saturday, April 4 at 2 p.m. at the fellowship hall located on Cutoff Street. Come join us for this afternoon of fun.

Spring revival services are just around the corner. Bro. Ron Taylor will be joining us on Wednesday, April 22 through Sunday, April 26. Services Wednesday through Saturday will begin at 7 p.m., and Sunday services will be at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Join us for this special time.

Monday, May 11 is the next Men’s Group meeting. We will be gathering at the Stanford McDonalds at 7 p.m. to meet and fellowship. Come join us.

Are you looking for a home church? There are so many excellent churches in our area it may be hard to find that right “fit.” If this describes you, stop by and visit us sometime.

On Sunday mornings, we follow the traditional format with Sunday School at 10 a.m. and worship at 11 a.m. On Sunday night, we begin at 6 p.m. and have an open forum for singing and testimony followed by the message by either Bro. Buford or Youth Pastor Dennis Hasty. On the first Sunday night of each month, we devote the entire service to singing and testimonies. On Wednesday night, we carve out the 7 p.m. hour to Biblical teaching for adults, youth and children. Adults meet in the sanctuary in an informal setting, children in the Sunday School rooms and the youth alternate between the church and fellowship hall.

What’s our dress code? Simply put, there isn’t one. Come as you are, we just ask that you wear clothes. For more information about the church and different activities that are available, visit us on the web at www.stanford-churchofthenazarene.com, and as always don’t forget to “like” us on Facebook. Also, you can contact the church at (606) 365-1260 and leave a message. Pastor Buford or someone else will give you a call back.

Want to see a service? We have established a Youtube channel and all services are posted to the channel and linked to the Facebook page.

The church has an active food assistance program. If you know of anyone or have a need yourself, please leave a message at the church.

Sara’s Notes

By Sara Givens

Oh gosh, what a beautiful day, the sun is brightly shining, get out and enjoy. By the way, every day is beautiful, it is just how you perceive it.

There will be a revival at Bethel Baptist Church, March 16-18 at 7 p.m. each evening. Elder Robert Coulter, Jr., pastor of Boneyville Baptist Church will be the evangelist along with the choir each evening. Rev. Ronnie McCowan is the pastor.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mr. George Brown, Jr., the son of the late George and Othello Brown. He lived in Port Royal, S.C. Funeral arrangements were not complete at this writing. He passed on March 13.

Sympathy is also extended to the family of Mrs. Vi Ann “Billie” Wilkinson Smith. She is the daughter of the late Jesse and Adell Wilkinson. She graduated from the former Lincoln High School in 1955. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

There will be a “Gospel Explosion” in songs at First Baptist Church, Danville, March 28 at 4 p.m. The Mass Choir of the South District Association will be putting on this program and the youth. Mr. David Kimberland is the director. Elder Jerry Wilkinson is the district moderator and Rev. Derrick Briscoe is the host pastor. The public is invited to attend.

Rev. Phillip Yates, pastor of Little Zion Baptist Church came through surgery and is doing much better. Continue to pray for the sick and shut-ins.

90 Years and Counting...

Longevity has played an important role in the lives of several people as they continue to lean on the promises of the Lord.

Those that have reached the ninety mark plus are: Mistery John Thomas Gooch, Eugene Jones, Raymond Hall, Henry Lewis Brown, Mrs. Virginia Amett, Mary Frances Stewart, Lucille Helm, Savannah Pigg, Emma Smith Stanley, Ruth Kinley and Betty White.

Thought for the week: Respect the old when you are young, help the weak when you are strong, confess your faults when you are wrong, because one day in life, you will be old, weak and wrong.

OTTENHEIM AREA NEWS

By Dorothea Schlappi

Our prayers go out to the Clyde Petrey family in his passing into eternity last week. He was the brother of Delmas Petrey and Wilma Barnes. He grew up here in Ottenheim. A lot of us remember him from school. May he rest in peace with our Lord.

We are so glad no one got hurt badly in the wreck that happened about three and one half miles from Halls Gap on Hwy. 643 last week.

The early flowers are blooming along with the pussy willow bushes. The little frogs can be heard in the early evening and the birds can be seen hopping around. Spring is soon here and everything knows its time to come alive.

So many of the elderly are not feeling well, if you know someone, I’m sure they would live to receive a card of cheer.

The snow and so much rain has saturated the earth, now maybe we’ll get a few days of drying out and then the good smell of the earth being worked will give our spirits a lift.

When life’s problems seem overwhelming look around and see what others are copying with, we may consider ourselves fortunate. God bless.

McDowell Place offering educational series

McDowell Place of Danville will host a spring educational series beginning April 7. The free educational programs are designed for seniors and focus on helping individuals make informed decisions about their future.

The dates and topics of the educational opportunities are as follows:

April 7 – “Strategies to Manage Congestive Heart Failure (CHF) at Home”

In this session, participants will learn what the patient and family can do at home to monitor CHF and identify changes in clinical symptoms that warrant early intervention/follow-up in order to prevent hospitalization. By Dr. Kate Morizio, PharmD., Delta Program at Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center

April 9 – “The Hospice Patient, Support and Services”

What does Hospice really do? This session is designed to assist members of the community to become more aware of the services and support available through their local hospice agency, Heritage Hospice, Inc., for the individual and family suffering a life-limiting illness. Also discussed will be the role of holistic interventions to support the unique physical, psychosocial, and spiritual needs of the dying patient and their family. By Angela Cope, BSN, RN, CHPN, Staff Development and Education coordinator, Heritage Hospice, Inc.

April 14 – “VA Aid and Attendance Benefit for Assisted Living Care”

This informative session, led by a VA accredited elder law attorney specializing in veteran benefits, will explain and clarify this underutilized and often misunderstood benefit open to war-time Veterans or their surviving spouse. By Eileen Walsh, Attorney, Elder Law of Louisville

April 16 – “Legislative Patrol: What You Should Know”

In this session, get up-to-date information on hot government topics that are pertinent to seniors including the current caregiving legislation called the CARE Act and the savings legislation, Work and Save. Also included in this session will be an overview of the past legislative session in Frankfort. By Jim Kimbrough, AARP

April 21 – “ABC’s of Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD)”

In this session, participants will learn what the patient and family can do at home to monitor COPD and identify changes in clinical symptoms that warrant early intervention/follow-up in order to prevent hospitalization. By Dr. Bethany Pearson, PharmD., Delta program at Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center

April 23 – “Traditional Medicare vs. Medicare Advantage Plans-What It Means for You”

This session will give an overview/comparison of traditional Medicare vs. Medicare Advantage Plans in the hospital setting. By Gail Shearer, director of Case Management, Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center

April 28 – “Top 10 Facts about Backs”

In this session, participants will learn about strategies to maintain a healthy back and spine as you age, including how to prevent common injuries. By Bo Eppinghoff, PT, DPT, Ephraim McDowell Spine Physical Therapy

April 30 – “Know the 10 Warning Signs of Alzheimer’s Disease”

Early detection of Alzheimer’s disease can help individuals with dementia while science directs us toward treatment, prevention and ultimately, a cure. The sooner a diagnosis is made, the sooner impactful interventions can begin. At the workshop, you will learn: how to tell the difference between Alzheimer’s and typical aging; steps to take if you recognize a warning sign in yourself or someone you know; the process to receiving an Alzheimer’s diagnosis; and why early detection is crucial. By Renee Chase, MDiv., Community Outreach coordinator, Alzheimer’s Association - Greater Kentucky and Southern Indiana

Each educational program begins at 10:30 a.m. and will last 45 minutes to one hour. McDowell Place of Danville is located at 1181 Ben Ali Drive.

School for women taking applications

Since 1987, over 779 women across Appalachia have been learning they have the strength and courage to finish their education and to build the self-esteem they need to find their potential. At no cost to them, women who find themselves in transition and are seeking to be inspired and build their confidence are doing just that through the New Opportunity School for Women (NOSW) in Berea.

“For me, the NOSW was a chance of a lifetime. I wish every woman could attend. I feel more alive now. I feel like myself again. Before the school, I had gotten so depressed because I felt like my life was over because I couldn’t work. Now I feel like I may be able to work again with the education that I’m now getting. Before the NOSW, I felt I was too old to go to college and begin again. Now I know that I’m not – I see a future in my life again,” said a NOSW graduate from Norton, Va.

Now is the time to submit applications for the June 2015 session. Applicants who are selected and complete the three-week residential program will find themselves to be more self-sufficient, more confident, and will be an inspiration for their families and community. Additionally, the New Opportunity School staff and alumni provide a strong support system for graduates.

The New Opportunity School’s unique program has received national recognition on Oprah and in People magazine. The 2015 NOSW Summer Residential Session is June 7-27.

Requests for applications and/or additional information should be addressed to The New Opportunity School for Women, 204 Chestnut Street, Berea, KY 40403, or by calling (859) 985-7200. Our website, www.nosw.org, provides additional information regarding our no-cost program and an online application.

Volunteers upgrade Kings Mountain Community Center

By Pam Wright
pwright@centralkynews.com

KINGS MOUNTAIN — With a goal of creating a community hub for families in Lincoln County, a group of volunteers converged Saturday on Kings Mountain Memorial Community Center for a “Day of Action” to spruce up the former school.

In a collaborative effort that began in January, volunteers from the center joined with others from the Altria Group, Heart of Kentucky United Way, Metro United Way from Louisville and the Hands On Network for Saturday’s Day of Action.

More than 30 volunteers worked on a variety of small projects, which included renovation of an existing playground with equipment donated by Altria, the parent company of Phillip Morris. Volunteers also painted rooms, moved books for a new Lincoln County Public Library extension office and prepared care packages for local military personnel serving overseas.

The community center partners with churches and other community organizations to build the lives of individuals and families, physically, spiritually and emotionally, according to director Josh Jacobs.

Jacobs said his ties to the community center date to his own childhood when it was a school.

“My dad went to high school here. I went to school here, so we’re from the community,” said Jacobs. “I wanted to be a part of something that was initiated before I was even involved because it’s local and I wanted to make a difference here.”

The center provides a variety of activities for kids and adults alike, including Boys and Cub Scouts of America, 4-H, a YMCA after-school program and Celebrate Recovery. Jacobs said other planned services include a tutoring program that will launch in two weeks, Big Brothers and Big Sisters of America and a variety of classes such as GED and financial planning.

Bluegrass.org also is also preparing to open an office in the center to offer a mental health clinic.

“It’s another area of outreach that’s going to be provided by this facility,” said Amy Longwill, community impact director of Heart of Kentucky wUnited Way.

Jacobs would like to see whole families become involved with the center, especially in conjunction with Celebrate Recovery, a Christian-based, 12-step program, that offers help for addictions and families of addicts.

“Hopefully, the teens that are willing to come to that program can encourage their parents to come to the adult program, as well,” he said.

The tutoring program is sponsored by United Way.

“The tutoring program is the exact type of program that we want to get behind,” said Longwill. “They offer programs that are not just trying to tutor this little kid in reading, they’re trying to work with the whole family, wrap their arms around a family and help them. The more children we can get on grade level, especially by third grade, we know we’re on the path to saving them.”

A dent was made Saturday in the plans and projects Jacobs dreams of for the center and for the community.

“We’re still in our infancy here,” said Jacobs. “We still need a lot of help from our community,” he said. “That’s what we’re all about here — helping our community — and we want our we’re trying to make.”

Two charged after Lincoln deputies find drugs, guns

KINGS MOUNTAIN — Two Lincoln County residents were arrested and charged after deputies found drugs and guns while serving a bench warrant.

Roy Patterson, 28, and Jasmine Foley, 19, both of Kings Mountain, were both at a home along SD Gooch Road March 10 when deputies visited the residence to serve an active warrant on Patterson, according to a news release.

Deputies smelled marijuana as they approached the home, according to the release.

After arresting Patterson, Foley admitted to having drug paraphernalia and showed deputies “spoons with burn marks and residue” and “several hypodermic needles,” according to the release.

The owner of the home gave deputies permission to search the residence and they located drugs they suspect to be methamphetamine and marijuana. Deputies also found guns on the property.

Because Patterson is a convicted felon, he was charged with possession of a handgun by a convicted felon and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon, according to jail records.

Foley was charged with tampering with physical evidence, possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of a controlled substance, according to jail records.

Patterson and Foley were being held in the Lincoln County Regional Jail on Tuesday.

Lincoln County Deputy Sheriff Chase Marcum headed up the investigation. He was assisted on the scene by Deputy Daniel Grimsby, Deputy DeWayne Taylor and Constable Delbert Mitchell.

Lincoln jail to get technology grants

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — The Lincoln County Regional Jail will receive $40,000 over the next four years to spend on technology upgrades thanks to a renegotiated contract with the company that provides phone service for inmates.

The new phone contract is similar to the jail’s old phone contract, except for the $40,000 in grant funding and a change that allows the jail to gain additional revenue off of long-distance calls, Jailer Rob Wilson said.

Families of inmates put money into the phone system and then inmates use that money to call out, Wilson explained. The jail and the phone company split the revenue off the calls, except now the jail will receive 5 percent more from long-distance calls, Wilson said.

The jail will be able to use up to $10,000 in grant funding every year for the next four years as part of the deal. The jail can buy technology items such as printers or computers and then be reimbursed for the cost from the grant money.

Wilson said renegotiating the phone contract is one of several ways he is aiming to improve finances at the jail. Regaining revenue from the jail canteen by running it in-house instead of hiring a third-party vendor and reducing overtime hours are two of those strategies, he said.

“We’re slowly nickeling and dime-ing our way toward the light at the end of the tunnel,” Wilson said.

Response filed in lawsuit over Stanford EMS wreck

By Todd Kleffman
tkleffman@centralkynews.com

STANFORD — The man who was killed in a crash with a Stanford ambulance last year was at least partially responsible for the wreck.

That’s one of the arguments the attorney for Stanford Emergency Medical Service and ambulance driver Joshua Ruhe makes in defense of a lawsuit filed by the son of Walter Manuel, who died in the Jan. 14, 2014, crash on U.S. 27 at the intersection of Lancaster Street.

London attorney Marcia Milby Ridings, who represents both the ambulance service and Ruhe, states in her response, “the negligence, fault or tortious conduct of Walter E. Manuel, and/or other persons or parties, caused or contributed to cause all, or a percentage of the claimed damages, thereby barring recovery in whole or part from” the defendants.

Ridings asks for the lawsuit to be dismissed against both parties.

Stanford EMS and Ruhe were named as defendants in a lawsuit filed in January in Lincoln Circuit Court by Clarence W. Manuel, administrator of his father’s estate.

Manuel’s lawsuit alleged Ruhe was negligent as the driver of the ambulance that struck Walter Manuel’s vehicle on the passenger side as it attempted to enter U.S. 27 from Lancaster Street. Manuel, 79, was pronounced dead at the scene.

According to police, the ambulance was carrying a critically ill patient who was en route to Fort Logan Hospital where a helicopter was waiting to airlift him to a Lexington hospital. Ruhe, the patient and two other people in the ambulance were all injured in the crash, police said.

The lawsuit seeks an unspecified amount of damages for medical expenses, funeral expenses of $9,029, pain and suffering, and the loss of Walter Manuel’s ability to earn money.

Ridings also argues that the crash and damages were brought about “as the result of an unavoidable accident.”

AN ENCOURAGING WORD Better things ahead

By Howard Coop
Contributing Columnist

Percy Bysshe Shelley, an English poet who lived and wrote in the early part of the nineteenth century, posed an interesting question in one of his poems, "If winter comes, can spring be far behind?" Then, there is an ancient proverbial saying that has been with us for ages that answers that question: "No matter how long the winter, spring is sure to follow."

The dismal season of winter, characterized by long dark nights and gray drab days accompanied by unpredictable weather, is almost over. In just a few hours, spring, with warmer and more pleasant days and more predictable weather, will be here. The vernal equinox, that time when the sun in its annual journey northward crosses the equator and days and nights are of equal length, will occur, if the calendar is correct (and it always is), on Friday, March 20. Most of us will feel so much better in the depth of our hearts, for spring, the season we have longed for, will be here at last.

All around there is a dramatic stirring. The earth, dormant for a long period of time, is awakening. Moment by moment, it bursts forth with new life, and change is evident everywhere. The drab grays and dreary browns of winter are giving way to the beautiful greens and bright yellows of spring, and all around there is evidence of growth and vitality. With warmer days, the lovely crocuses bloom, and the returning songbirds sing. Virgil A. Craft poignantly pointed out the significance of the season when he said, "Spring shows what God can do with a drab and dirty world."

The coming of spring is a reminder of something more profound. There is a spirit of optimism in the human heart. That spirit enables us to forget the dreariness of the past and look forward to a brighter future. With confident assurance, we move ahead believing in the depth of the heart that better things are ahead.

LC Relay Life looking for new teams

Lincoln County Relay for Life is looking for new teams! Have you or a family member been touched by cancer? Do you want to make a difference? Teams are made of businesses, churches, school, family and friends, and anyone else! Most teams are made of 10-20 members, but more or less is certainly fine, with the understanding that each team member is asked to raise at least $100. Our Relay is Friday, June 12 at the Lincoln County Fairgrounds and we have team meetings once a month. If you are interested, or if you would like more information, contact Charlotte at (859) 749-4580. Together, we can fund research, educate for earlier detection, and one day find a cure.

The Art of Beekeeping

The Gardener’s Group will host Janis Scott on Thursday, March 26 at 6 p.m. at the Casey County Extension Education Building, where she will present her award winning program on beekeeping. Janis has a background in education, and is an avid gardener and beekeeper. She is also a teacher of American Indian Spirituality, and our relationship to nature, and has completed a seven year apprenticeship with a Hopi Elder and teacher. Please call the Casey County Extension Office (606)787-7384 by March 23 so we can plan for refreshments and seating.

Local DAV Chapters help and honor veterans and their families

The Disabled American Veterans (DAV) organization is a national organization with the mission of helping and honoring veterans and their families. There is a bond of Service, Sacrifice, Commitment and Character connecting America’s veterans regardless of when and where they served and regardless of branch of service. To this end, chapters provide service officers to assist with claims and provide other services to veterans and their families. Chapters with enough membership may provide an honor guard for veterans’ funerals. If you know a veteran who needs assistance or you are a veteran who wishes to help other veterans, contact DAV Chapter 129, E.M. Boardman Chapter which meets at the Stanford Depot on the third Thursday of each month. Charles E. Hayes, 5th District DAV Commander. More information can be received from Robert Bowen Sr. at (606)) 365-3974.

Pleasant View Baptist Church news

By Scena Ann Petrey

The Celebration Choir will be presenting a beautiful musical on Easter Sunday, April 5 called “Your Grace Still Amazes Me.”

Missionary Isaac Brickner of Jews for Jesus will recreate the traditional Passover service and explain how it foreshadowed Jesus’ death and resurrection on Sunday, March 22 at 11 a.m. at Pleasant View.

The Watoto Children’s Choir will present a new choir production entitled “Oh, What Love” at PVBC on Tuesday, March 31 at 7 p.m. This is a children’s group from Africa. They performed at PVBC once before, and what a blessing they were to everyone who came.

The services for Sunday, March 15 were youth led. Katie McWhorter, Jessie Wilson, Madison Cornett, and Josh

Wilson were in the youth band. Bro. Matthew brought the morning message.

Bryce Todd gave his testimony on the pivotal circumstances in his life. He maintained that our lives are made up of times that God is growing us. The four he concentrated on were as follows: choosing a life mate, choosing a church with Christ as the center, growing a family, and allowing God to speak through our pains.

Bro. Matthew continued the sermon series with “Pivotal Circumstances” from Gen. 22:1-19. In this text Abraham was asked by God to take his son, Isaac who had been born when Abraham was 100 years old, to a mountain to be sacrificed. Can you imagine what thoughts Abraham had running through his mind? God tested Abraham to deepen his capacity to obey and to grow his faith.

Trusting God in everything is a lesson we all have to learn. These pivotal circumstances come in our lives to grow our faith Big and to deepen our dependency on God. Just as God provided an animal for a sacrifice in place of Abraham’s son, He will provide during our times of need.

GLOW is the program on Wednesday nights for children kindergarten through sixth grades. They will begin a six-week study called “Pure Boy/ Pure Girl”. The children will be learning the “Traits of a Superhero”. The theme for all year has been “Jesus Is My Superhero!”

The children (kindergarten through sixth grade) will go to the Lexington Ice Center Saturday, March 21. They will leave the church at 4:30 p.m. Following the skating session from 5:45-7:45 p.m., they will eat at GattiTown. The cost to skate is $6 for everyone. Contact Stacy Story for more information. Plans are to return to church at 10:30 p.m.

Plans for the 2015 Easter Eggstravanganza are under way. There will be a glow-in-the-dark egg hunt Friday, April 3. The event, which will be held at the shelter, will follow the Good Friday service and the fellowship meal. Crafts, snacks, egg hunt, and lots of fun are on the agenda.

The Ephraim McDowell/ Fort Logan Hospital Auxiliary will join with us for a luncheon on Friday, March 27 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. for $6. Easter lilies are on sale for $10 each. Contact the church office for more information.

Congratulations to Josh Wilson, the son of Mark and Kellie Wilson and the grandson of Gail Hamilton. He signed with Berea College last Friday where he will play baseball next year.

Congratulations to Noah and Ryan Young. Noah was named to the regional all tournament team last week after Lincoln County’s basketball team lost by two points to Boyle County. Ryan Young was inducted into the Regional Hall of Fame at the halftime of the finals of the basketball game. During his junior and senior years at Lincoln County, the basketball team went to the state’s Sweet Sixteen.

Thought for the week: “At some point you have to put your life in God’s Hands, acknowledging you may never understand why certain things happen but trusting that He does! (Irene Hannon)

Testing the limits of free speech

By Gene Policinski
Inside the First Amendment

Once again, the brutal language of racism tests our commitment to free speech.

Only a bigot could approve of the chant using the “N-word” sung by Sigma Alpha Epsilon (SAE) members at the University of Oklahoma on a charter bus Saturday, loudly proclaiming African Americans would never be admitted to their fraternity chapter and gleefully mentioning lynching.

Consider the “song” in all its awful nature:

There will never be a nigger at SAE

There will never be a nigger at SAE

You can hang him from a tree

But he’ll never sign with me

There will never be a nigger at SAE

What could be worse?

How about this taking place on the same weekend the nation was commemorating the 50th anniversary of the famed civil rights confrontation at Selma’s Edmund Pettus Bridge?

Awful. Disgusting. Repellent. Sickening.

But also, protected free speech. The 10-second video clip was sent anonymously by email Sunday afternoon to the student newspaper, The Oklahoma Daily, and to a campus organization. Within hours, it had the nation’s attention. University president David Boren — a former governor and U.S. senator — was outraged. He quickly ordered the fraternity house vacated and closed, declaring that “effective immediately, all ties and affiliations between this University and the local SAE chapter are hereby severed.”

A day later, he expelled two students whom he identified as being in “leadership” roles connected to the obnoxious singing. And it’s there where President Boren crossed a clear constitutional line. Condemning the song in the strongest possible way, at multiple occasions: Yes: Exactly the kind of response the First Amendment provides for — more speech to counter speech you don’t like.

Shutting down the frat house: The university’s Regents apparently own the building and may evict occupants. The national governing body of SAE, as a private operation, also had the right to end its affiliation and to close down its own local chapter.

But a host of cases reaching all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, some involving similarly repugnant behavior — a fraternity’s “ugly woman” contest, for example — say clearly that content-based punishments of individual speakers will not stand.

The former governor and U.S. senator said Monday that any punishments would be “carefully directed” to pass constitutional muster and cited his belief the singing students were creating a “hostile learning environment.” But saying it’s so doesn’t make it legal — or right.

Boren and a few scholars have raised the specter of potential civil rights violations or violation of the school’s student code of “rights and responsibilities,” and indirectly embraced the underlying logic of what courts have called “optimum conditions for learning” and a university’s “substantial interest in maintaining an educational environment free of discrimination and racism.”

But even those worthy elements run up against the core First Amendment principle that government may not punish anyone for the content of their speech or for having a view that many — or even most — find offensive. Put most simply: We have the right to offend others and to freedom from the fear of being punished for expressing such views.

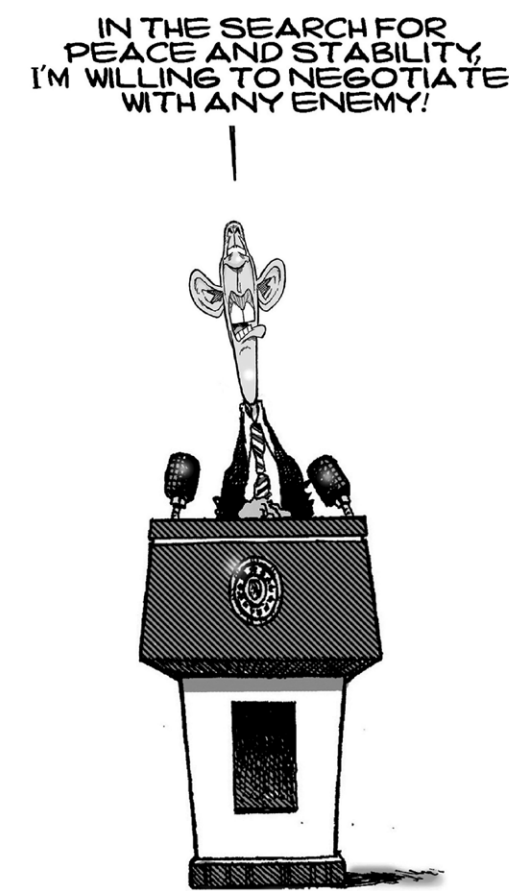

If the expulsions are challenged in court, the university will have the difficult task of proving that this one-time incident constituted a direct or pervasive threat or provocation, substantially affected the ability of OU students to get a good education, and that there were no other, more-narrowly focused actions than expulsion available to counter the negative impact. The student code would fall even more quickly before the First Amendment right of free speech — which cannot be signed away or overriden via a college rulebook. Clearly, the public excoriation, rallies, marches, closing of the frat house and already announced plans for the university community to conduct meetings and seminars to put more emphasis on diversity, offer such alternative — and longer-lasting — remedies. And all of those are more First Amendment-oriented than expulsion.

Boren made it clear how he feels about the content of the SAE members’ speech: “To those who have misused their free speech in such a reprehensible way, I have a message for you. You are disgraceful. You have violated all that we stand for. You should not have the privilege of calling yourselves ‘Sooners.’ Real Sooners are not racist. Real Sooners are not bigots.”

A call for fairness and equality that follows in the path set out by those Selma marchers five decades ago — including the hope of a better future. But can any real question remain that by expelling them, this public university wasn’t punishing the two students — and potentially more involved in the incident — for the content and viewpoint expressed in that reprehensible “song”?

Let’s not compound one wrong with another.

Photo sharing on social media can be a double-edged sword

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

Tuesday was St. Patrick’s Day and many people were probably celebrating with friends, parties and alcohol.

There will inevitably be many memories from these parties saved by smartphone cameras, but if you capture any moments, you may have to think twice before posting them online.

Social media has revolutionized photo sharing, but an unintended side-effect has been an unreasonable expectation that our photos be both personal and professional at the same time.

It used to be that you could take photos of a fun event and then share stories and laughs with friends and family as you showed them the printed images.

Now, we share our photos online and get way more feedback — I can get 30+ plus likes on a photo of my dog in one day, while before social media I might have shown such a photo once to four or five people.

That additional social interaction makes us all feel special. We all want the positive feeling that comes from dozens of friends liking what we’ve done.

But at the same time, social media websites have become a go-to source in the professional world. Facebook posts can now make or break job offers.

While it’s not the intended purpose of social media, it makes sense that employers have co-opted social photo platforms such as Facebook and Instagram.

Whenever employers are hiring new workers, it can be expensive. If a bad employee gets hired and then quits or is fired, it gets even more expensive because the whole process starts over.

As a result, employers want to get an inside perspective on whoever they’re thinking about hiring. Many interview questions are often geared to exactly this purpose — they’re designed to put the interviewee at ease or catch them off-guard and provide a moment of pure honesty that’s not just the interviewee’s “best face.”

Social media provides an irresistible opportunity to catch a glimpse into a job candidate’s personal life that could reveal promising indicators or red flags.

Employers aren’t doing anything wrong when they snoop on candidates’ social media pages; they’re simply minimizing risk by using every tool available.

It’s an unfortunate truth about social media sites that they cannot serve solely as the friendly sharing services we want them to be.

Limiting the audience of your photos on social media is one possible solution, but since the purpose of social media to begin with is to share widely, it kind of defeats the purpose.

And no matter how tightly you restrict your sharing, you’re still sharing a digital image that can be duplicated somewhere else outside your control.

If you want to share personal images with friends and family without the worry of being judged in the professional world, it may be that the best method is still sitting down in the same place together and looking at photos offline.

GUEST EDITORIAL — LEXINGTON HERALD-LEADER

Don’t take sunshine for granted

There is a constant, permanent tension between the demand that public business be public and the impulse of organizations, even public ones, to limit access to information.

That’s why we have sunshine laws: to assure that citizens can find out how their tax dollars are spent and what their government is doing.

Often news organizations initiate open records requests but anyone can. It was a persistent neighborhood group that pried open the inner workings of the Bluegrass Area Development District, for example.

Here are a few other things we’ve learned recently about government in Kentucky, thanks to laws mandating open records and transparency in government actions:

■ A state penitentiary inmate starved himself to death after banging his head on his cell door and telling prison staff he felt anxious and paranoid. Medical personnel didn’t give him anti-anxiety medication or check on him. By the time of his death the 6-foot man weighed 138 pounds.

■ State police investigating document shredding by former Legislative Research Commission Director Bobby Sherman seized his computer but didn’t look at files on it before saying the case was closed and they’d found no evidence of wrongdoing.

■ The environmental cabinet indicated state enforcers knew that Frasure Creek Mining was falsifying water monitoring reports and were taking action, but when a citizen group asked to see the enforcement files no records were found.

■ The Tourism Development Finance Authority told Ark Encounter it would lose $18 million in tax incentives unless it provided “express written assurance ... that it will not discriminate ... on the basis of religion in hiring for the project.”

■ Even after the renovation of Rupp Arena was suspended, the project manager continued at a salary of $200,000 a year.

But there are huge parts of public life not covered by sunshine laws. Consider:

■ In 2003, legislators decided that, although the attorney general has authority to rule on open records requests directed at the rest of government, the General Assembly would leave that job up to its own leaders.

■ The court system has also exempted itself. For example, an investigation into “inappropriate workplace activities” of a former manager was closed. Disciplinary actions involving judges themselves are sealed, as are disciplinary actions, short of disbarment, for attorneys.

■ State retirement benefits are closed, so it’s impossible to know how many former legislators have hefty pensions thanks to laws they enacted.

There’s also a lot of gamesmanship to avoid obeying the laws. Preliminary reports are exempt but some reports, like the audit of the Legislative Research Commission, stay that way for months or years.

The neighbors pursuing the Bluegrass ADD had to appeal to the attorney general before they got any answers.

The University of Kentucky stonewalled requests for information about the death rates on pediatric heart surgeries, appealing an attorney general’s order to circuit court, only releasing the information when national media raised questions.

The Cabinet for Health and Family Services was slapped with a $756,000 fine for withholding public records about about children killed or badly hurt from child abuse.

Don’t take sunshine for granted.

AMBULANCE

Rather, James and Floro said they wanted confirmation from the board that the other members were interested in the proposals before they put the legwork in to find them.

Board Chairman Jerry Shelton said he would not vote on the motion but that he is adamantly opposed to the idea of consolidation.

“I’ll be against consolidating services until hell freezes over,” he said. “You can write that down in big letters — until hell freezes over.”

Shelton said he wants to keep things the way they are currently organized because he believes multiple community-level ambulance services can provide better ambulance service within their individual communities.

James responded that half the county is currently without an ambulance service due to the closure of McKinney Area Rescue Squad in 2013 and the temporary suspension of West Lincoln EMS’ license in December.

If no action is taken to change how ambulance service is provided in Lincoln County, more services will close and the county will ultimately wind up with one service anyway, James said.

“You’ll either have it happening by default or you’ll have it happening because you made a proactive decision,” he said.

James and Floro said they could have proposals for the board to consider at the board’s April meeting.

Stanford EMS proposal supported

Floor said at Monday’s meeting that he supports a proposal offered by Stanford EMS to provide local coverage for the west side of the county by opening an ambulance base in Hustonville.

The proposal, first submitted in late February by Stanford EMS Chairman Danny Glass, asks the board for $204,000 — an estimated three-fifths of the county ambulance board’s annual tax funding.

For that $204,000, the ambulance service would cover its original coverage area and the coverage areas of West Lincoln and McKinney; and it would open the Hustonville base.

In a second proposal, Stanford EMS said it would cover the same three areas of the county but do it all from their Stanford base — meaning longer response times to western side of the county. The agency requested $170,000 for the second proposal.

Floor said the first proposal seems to him to be the best.

“I think it’s important that the west end of the county be covered,” he said. “I think it’s important that we have facilities resident in that area of the county.”

Shelton said it’s important to remember that the $204,000 proposal would effectively cut funding for the other two operational ambulance services — East End EMS and Waynesburg Area Rescue Squad — by around $15,000 apiece compared to the current fiscal year.

James disagreed with that characterization, saying “it’s not a matter of cutting; it’s a matter of who gets what would have gone to those services that no longer exist.”

Prior to McKinney’s closure in 2013, the ambulance board split available tax revenue five ways among the county’s five ambulance services.

After McKinney’s closure, that changed to a four-way split among the remaining agencies.

Stanford’s $204,000 proposal would essentially revert from a four-way split to a five-way split, with Stanford EMS getting three of the five pieces and the other two agencies each getting one.

Based on the current year’s estimated budget of about $85,000 for four ambulance services, Stanford’s $204,000 proposal would result in Waynesburg and East End each receiving $68,000 — a reduction of $17,000.

Shelton said the ultimate fate of West Lincoln EMS has yet to be determined and the agency could still regain its license to operate, thus providing the west-side ambulance base that is currently lacking.

A hearing is set for Friday to determine whether West Lincoln regains its license or loses it permanently, Shelton said. Until that decision is final, the board can’t make an informed decision one way or another on Stanford’s proposal, he said.

Floro said he has heard it “seems apparent” that West Lincoln will not regain their license.

“Is that a fair assessment?” he asked. “It depends on who you talk to,” Shelton responded.

SUPERINTENDENT

cuss Hatter’s contract and Hatter brought an attorney to the meeting because she said she feared her rights could have been violated.

The board added an action item to their March 12 agenda to take action on Hatter’s contract but what the action would be was unknown to the public prior to the meeting.

Lincoln County Head Start coordinator Christine Killen was the only person who signed up to address the board on the issue prior to action being taken.

“In my 44 years within Lincoln County, I’ve worked with many superintendents and I’m glad to say they’ve all been excellent superintendents with the exception of one and they’ve all had the children’s interests at heart — but none like Mrs. Hatter,” she said. “Karen has had more issues to face in the past couple of years than 10 superintendents have had to face.

“... Under her leadership, Lincoln County has accomplished a major turnaround in the past few years and we’ve come such a long way — now is not the time to change leaders. As the saying goes, you do not change horses in the middle of the stream.”

Killen said bringing in new leadership while the district is still dealing with the aftermath of an August fire that gutted the board of education annex building would “be a disaster.”

“Lincoln County cannot afford to do this,” she said. “Lincoln County children deserve better than that.”

Killen said the board’s thoughts on Hatter and reasoning for wanting to renew or not renew her contract remain something of a mystery for many in the county.

“None of us should have a hidden agenda; none of us should have a vendetta against someone. None of us should be thinking about anything but what is best for the children of Lincoln County for the next year or the next three years and that is Karen Hatter as superintendent,” she said. “...Ever since her contract has come into question, I’ve seen a major shift in the morale of the school district staff. Rumors are flying across this county. Everywhere I go, people are asking, ‘what is the school board thinking? What more do they want her to do?’”

Killen ended her speech by warning that she previously witnessed a Lincoln board of education oust a quality superintendent and the result “nearly destroyed” the district.

“I hope you think seriously about what you are doing. It will have long-term, serious consequences for all of us, including you as board members, but particularly for the children of Lincoln County — those who should always be the center of everything we do,” she said.

Killen’s speech received a loud round of applause from the audience.

Board Chairman Tom Blankenship asked if there was a motion anyone on the board wanted to make, but board member Denny Hogue interjected — “let’s have a little discussion first. I’ve never heard of any reason why her contract is — whatever we’re trying ...”

Board member Marvin Wilson responded, “If you let us, you might figure it out here in a minute.”

Wilson said the board should vote and then “it will all be good.”

Board member Theresa Long said she appreciated Killen’s opinion and made a motion to add a year to Hatter’s contract under the same terms and conditions.

“Is the timing right for a new superintendent? I think not,” she said.

Wilson seconded Long’s motion and the board voted unanimously in favor — though Hogue was hesitant and gave Wilson and Long a skeptical look.

“I thought you wanted it,” Wilson said. “You had to drag your arm up there.”

“I’d just like to say one more thing,” Hogue said. “I think some people have gotten some information that I didn’t get,” suggesting that board members potentially discussed the vote outside of public meetings.

Long and Wilson said they visited and spoke with Hatter prior to the meeting.

“I think we’re allowed to do that, aren’t we? Why, sure we are,” Wilson said. “You can’t find out nothing unless you ask somebody. You get all kinds of opinions — right field, left field — but until you go talk to the horse’s mouth, you ain’t going to know nothing except what somebody else told you that might have had a grievance against her or for her.”

Wilson said he, Long and Blankenship talked with Hatter and Hogue should have as well.

“You had the option to and you should have,” he said.

SNOW

Requests included help locating wood, kerosene and people to clear driveways; needs for medicine; and help getting to doctor appointments or dialysis treatments.

“We’re talking about patients that normally go by bus — they don’t need EMS. If it hadn’t been for us having a four-wheel drive ambulance and using a Humvee from the sheriff’s department, I don’t know how we could have done it,” said Ashley Powell, the Stanford EMS director.

By the end, Gilliam said, officials had amassed a collection of phone numbers to connect people to what they needed.

“This is the first time I’ve gone through something like this,” he said. “We tried to do as much as we could with what we had.”

Although the county had seven shelters on standby, they never activated them. Officials worked to get the help to people, instead of trying to get those people and the shelter workers out in the elements.

The county did rely on the help of the Lincoln County Baptist Association, also in attendance on Tuesday.

“We spent very little above — we had a hunger fund for that purpose. It really turned out good, because we are going to be able to get another food bank opened in the west end of the county,” said Gary King, director of the Lincoln County Baptist Association.

King said they were happy to fill the gap.

“That’s where we want to fit in the future, if that’s what you need us to do,” he said. “I’ve got people willing to help.”

The association had a network of volunteers in place, King explained, all of whom had been trained and prescreened before the storms hit.

That’s an idea the county officials said they needed to look into.

“We needed more people, more response personnel and more four-wheel drives,” said Gilliam. While there were a few to volunteer during the storm, there was caution using those who hadn’t received any pre-screenings or training. They also want to figure out what organizations have which assets, so they will be able to better work together.

Some of the successes from the storms came via social media. The EMA had amassed a list of the roads that were closed and had posted that online, updating it as the conditions changed, said Jeremy Blansett, deputy director of the emergency management agency.

“Once we had the list compiled, it was viewed about 11,000 times,” he said. “It was cross-posted, it was shared, it was posted again. Everybody was thrilled about the road-closure list.”

The biggest lesson learned, Gilliam said, was that everyone has to work together, which they seemed to do well.

“We can’t do it by ourselves,” he said. “We had firefighters on ambulances, EMTs in police cars. We don’t do this everyday.”

As are many emergency agencies in the state, Gilliam said Lincoln is waiting on more information about possible reimbursement for storm costs from FEMA, but that answer has been delayed 30 to 45 days, because the two storms were so close together.

“I didn’t have to,” Hogue said. “I know what kind of job she’s done.”

Hogue said he thinks he and Wilson were “talking about two different things.”

“I thought we were talking about hiring her back,” Wilson said.

“That’s fine,” Hogue said. “Go ahead.”

Public meeting law in Kentucky prohibits members of an elected body such as the Lincoln Board of Education from meeting together or discussing business in numbers that constitute a quorum outside of public meetings.

A quorum of the Lincoln board is three. Kentucky law also specifically prohibits series of smaller meetings that effectively circumvent the quorum requirement.

There is no prohibition against elected members meeting with non-elected officials.

After the vote and Hogue’s discussion with Wilson, Hatter took an opportunity to thank the board for its vote.

“I would like to say thank you for the opportunity to serve another year and to work with the students, with the team that we have,” she said. “... I really appreciate the opportunity and the offer of the contract.”

Blankenship said during his talk with Hatter, he was impressed by the fact that Hatter has been at the head of the district since a state intervention began in 2011 and the district is now close to emerging successfully from that intervention.

“I thought since that all happened during her time, (renewing her contract) was only the honorable thing to do,” he said.

TUMBLING

Wesley earns spot on AAU Junior Olympic National Team

By Nancy Leedy
nancy@theinteriorjournal.com

It's not easy for a power tumbler to earn a spot on the AAU Junior Olympic National Team, but Waynesburg teen Alexa Wesley did just that.

Wesley, 13, finished third in trampoline at the AAU National Trampoline and Tumbling Team Trials in Estero, Florida on Feb. 14. She was among hundreds of athletes from 30 clubs and 11 states vying for one of the 36 positions on the AAU National Team.

"I was so happy to make the team," Wesley exclaimed. "I was hoping that I would make it. I had been practicing very hard and even doing some extra practices."

The AAU National Team consists of 27 female athletes and nine male athletes competing at the Intermediate, Sub-Advanced and Advanced skill levels in tumbling, trampoline and double-mini trampoline. Only the top three in each event at trials earn a spot on the national team.

Wesley, who has been on a tumbling team since she was six, turned in a first-place finish in her flight (consisting of 10-12 athletes) in trampoline, but the butterflies set in as she awaited the results of all the flights.

"Even though I got first in my flight I was nervous until everyone got done and they announced the top three that scored high enough to make the team," she said. "I was almost sick, with my head and stomach hurting that day."

But all nervousness, and sick feelings, subsided when the AAU Junior Olympic National Teams were announced, and Wesley was one of the 36.

"When they announced my name as a team member, I screamed and jumped up and then I hugged my mom," said Wesley.

Wesley, who trains at Somerset Elite Training Center under coach Steve Landon, also competed in double-mini trampoline SYDNEY SLONE pitched a complete-game shutout for Lincoln County Monday, giving up just two hits in a 15-0 blanking of visiting Casey County. Slone, a sophomore, allowed just three walks in the Lady Patriots' opener while striking out five Lady Rebel batters.

STANFORD — Sydney Slone pitched a two-hit shutout to propel Lincoln County to a lopsided 15-0 win over Casey County in four innings Monday at Veterans Park.

The Lady Patriots opened their season-opener with an offensive onslaught that resulted in eight runs in the bottom of the first inning, setting them on course for the decisive win.

"I thought we did a good job of jumping on them early, scoring eight runs in that first inning," Lincoln coach Kevin Bandura said. "I thought we were real patient at the plate. We took walks when we needed to take walks, and we didn't really chase any pitches. I thought that helped us get off to that good start."

Lincoln (1-0) loaded up the bases quickly in the first, with Kristen Meece, Hannah Brown and Madisen Hinkle reaching via back-to-back walks. Meece and Brown both scored on passed balls, then Chelsea Marcum tagged Lincoln's first hit to drive in Hinkle for a 3-0 lead.

DOUBLE-PLAY. Lincoln County's Chyna Dyehouse reaches down to make the tag on Casey County's Alyx Streeval at second base. The out was the end of a double-play in the fourth. Jaylan Sowders grabbed a fly out by Haley Price and she threw to Dyehouse for the out to end the inning.

Lincoln had runners on the corners after Jaylan Sowders earned a base on balls, with Marcum stealing her way on around to third base. After an Abby Sparkman strikeout, Marcum scored on a wild pitch, then Slone banged out a two-run home run over the centerfield fence to plate Sowders and extend the lead to 6-0.

"I thought Sydney threw really well, and having that home run her first at-bat, too, kind of jumpstarted us," Bandura said.

Kelsey Meece, McKenzie Hensley and Kristen Meece followed Slone's homer with three straight singles. Meece scored on Hensley's hit and Hensley came across on a two-out bases-loaded walk to Marcum to make it 8-0.

Casey (0-1) finally got out of the inning with a ground out on Sowders with the bases loaded.

With Casey's youth and inexperience, and a shake-up in its pitching staff, Bandura said he felt the Lady Rebels might struggle defensively.

"They graduated a really good pitcher last year, then their second pitcher last year is not pitching this year, so they're relying on an eighth-grader (Haley Price)," he said. "That's going to set any team back and, like everybody else, they've not had much practice time on the field to try and work on their pitching with the weather and everything."

Price took the loss for Casey, giving up 12 hits and eight walks in her four

Lincoln's Wilson signs with Berea

By Nancy Leedy
nancy@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — Lincoln County pitcher/outfielder Josh Wilson will be on his way to Berea College in the fall of 2015.

While other schools have shown a big interest in Wilson, it seems they never really had a chance, as he had anticipated playing baseball for the Mountaineers since his sophomore year.

"I talked to Coach Norris (Berea assistant/recruiting coordinator Todd Norris) while he was recruiting Nolan (Sanders) here my sophomore year, and he told me they wanted me," Wilson said. "I liked that. And ever since then we've been constantly talking about it and meeting up."

Wilson looked at a few other colleges, including the University of the Cumberland and Campbellsville University, to make sure he made the best choice for himself. And each time Berea came out on the top of his list.

"They let me know early they were interested in me and that just really stuck in my mind," said Wilson. "As I was thinking of which schools wanted me and everything, it always came back to Berea wanted me early. Berea knew what they wanted and what they saw in me. I guess that really helped me make my pick."

And then he went to visit the campus.

"I visited the campus and toured it, and I felt right at home," Wilson said. "It was very Mayberry-ish. And I like small towns, where everybody knows everybody. I just felt like I was there."

"Berea was a place that I felt like this is where I want to be for the next four years or maybe longer."

So Wilson didn't delay his decision. Friday, with his parents, Mark and Kellie Wilson, his sister Jessie, the Lincoln County baseball team, his coaches (past and present), teachers and other family members looking on, Wilson publicly announced his signing with the NCAA Division III school in a signing ceremony at the high school.

"I wanted to make my

Lasure rallies to collect third singles win; Lincoln tennis teams fall

By Nancy Leedy

STANFORD — Ethan Lasure waged a dramatic comeback Tuesday afternoon to earn his second straight singles victory of the new tennis season.

Lasure, a senior, was down four games to Garrard County's Cameron Carver when he rallied, with the Patriot netter winning seven of the next eight game to earn the 8-6 singles victory at the one seed.

"Ethan Lasure showed a lot of heart as he was down 1-5 and came back to win 8-6," Lincoln coach Allen Lewis said. "He hit a lull and got down, but he took control of the match and got some momentum and never looked back. I was really proud of him tonight."

While Lasure was able to pull out the win, his team could not, as the visiting Golden Lions claimed the 6-3 match win over the Patriots.

Lasure did walk away with two of the three Lincoln wins in the match. He teamed up with Connor Playforth in doubles for his second "W" of the day. The senior Lincoln duo defeated Garrard's Jordan Griffin and Jesse Abrams 8-2 in the top-seeded match.

First-year player Roland Taylor earned the only other win for Lincoln Tuesday. Playing at No. 3, Taylor eas-decision early so I didn't have that stress and that worry of where am I going to go to school during the season," said Wilson. "So I could focus solely on my performance on the field and what I'm doing there I decided to make my decision before the season started."

Norris could not attend the signing, however, he did send along a few words on Berea's getting Wilson.

"We are excited about a student-athlete of Josh's ability both on the field and in the classroom joining our program," he said. "We feel that Josh will give us a much needed left-handed arm on our pitching staff, as well as the potential to provide us with depth in our outfield. Any time we can sign a quality young man from an area program it is exciting. It is also special considering both (Lincoln) Coach (Daryl) Day and (assistant) Coach (Tee) Ellis are former Mountaineers."

Wilson said he would be happy to play in either the pitcher or outfielder spot, but that one position would get him on the diamond quicker.

"They want me as mainly a pitcher, but that's if I want to get on the field as fast as possible," he said. "And I want to get on the field as fast as possible. But whatever they can use me for I'll do it."

Wilson's career varsity stats for pitching in six games played, are a 2-1 win-loss record with a 1.33 ERA, 23 strikeouts and seven walks in 21 innings pitched. He allowed four earned runs. Offensively, he has a .320 batting average. He has 39 hits off 122 at-bats in 60 games with six doubles, 19 stolen bases, 30 runs and 14 RBIs.

Wilson, who earned a starting position in the outfield as a sophomore, saw his junior season shortened due to an injury (hyper-extended left elbow), but he has rehabbed and is back 100 percent.

The successful rehab has Wilson not only excited about his senior season, but also the opportunity to play for Berea.

"They've been successful in the past. They've made it pretty far in the NAIA Tournament and their regular seasons have been pretty good. They've been successful and I hope to continue that," he said.

Wilson plans to earn his bachelor's degree in nursing and, after working a few years as an R.N., returning to school to receive a CRNA (certified registered nurse anesthetist) degree.

Wilson's academic honors and awards received to date include: 2014 Governor's Scholar, Hugh O'Brien Youth Leadership Ambassador, 2014 45th District Baseball All-Academic Team (junior year), KHSAA All-Academic First Team (sophomore and junior year), National Honor Society president (senior year), and member of BETA Club, HOSA Club, First Priority Leadership Team and Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

"Even though you are only allowed to be on one event on the team, I wished I had done a little better in my other events," said Wesley.

At the 2015 AAU Junior

Olympic Games in Virginia Beach, Virginia, Wesley will compete in all three events – trampoline, double-mini trampoline and tumbling. The Games will be July 29-Aug. 8. The Junior Olympic National Team will also perform in exhibition at the Games.

Wesley was one of four Somerset Elite power tumblers making the AAU Junior Olympic National Tumbling Team. Kendall Burgess, 11, of Somerset placed on double-mini, Marquise Kinley, 12, of Perryville placed on tumbling and Skylar Strunk, 14, of Somerset placed on double-mini.

The new AAU Junior Olympic National Team will also be presenting an exhibition at next year's Junior Olympic Games in Houston, Texas, July 2-Aug. 6, 2016.

innings up. She also hit one batter.

Casey, which went three up, three down in the first, got five batters to the plate in the top of the second inning. LaShaya Carman led off with a walk off Slone, but the Lady Pat sophomore followed with back-to-back pitched strikeouts to Alyx Streeval and Jessica Richardson. Price reached with a single to center before Slone struck out Myla McGowan to end the at-bat.

The Lady Patriots went back on the run in the bottom of the second, tackling on four more runs. Sparkman led off the inning with a walk off Price and Slone followed her on base with a single. Both runners advanced on a Kelsey Meece bunt out, then scored on a Hensley single to left field. Kristen Meece collected the second of her three hits in the game after the Hensley single, and she and Hensley moved around on a Brown ground out. Hensley and Meece would each score on a wild pitch, both with Hinkle at the plate, to extend the Lady Patriot lead to 12-0. Casey posed its biggest scoring threat in the top of the third, loading up the bases. Courtney Radliff reached on an error to start the at-bat, Lauren Wethington followed her on with a one-out walk, then Carman got on with a two-out walk. However, the scoring threat would end immediately after the Carman walk, with Radliff caught off base for the third out. Streeval led off the top of the fourth with a bunt single for Casey, but Slone followed with a strikeout of Richardson and the Lady Patriots turned a double-play off a Price hit to end the inning. Shortstop Jaylan Sowders caught the Price hit then she threw to Chyna Dyehouse at second for the tag on Streeval. "I thought we played well defensively," Bandura said. "I thought Jaylan Sowders played really well at shortstop. We made some good plays. Casey County's really young and inexperienced and that's the kind of performance we need against a team that's inexperienced like that." Slone earned the complete-game win, giving up just two hits with three walks while striking out five batters. Lincoln put an end to the game in the bottom of the fourth, with three more runs scored. Kristen Meece, Brown and Hinkle got Lincoln started with three straight singles.

Meece scored off Hinkle's hit then Sowders plated Brown and Hinkle with a two-out single for the 15-0 final. "We hit some balls hard tonight. Made them make plays. I thought we ran the bases really well," said Bandura. "Considering everything, without having much practice, I thought there were a lot of things we did well tonight." "Yesterday we got a good practice in and just worked on some things we didn't do very well in the scrimmage. I thought we corrected that tonight. I thought it was a good step forward for us, and it's always good to get a win to start with."

Conway, Taylor, Hocker on All-12th-District teams

Lincoln County's Jacob Conway, Timmy Taylor and Tiandra Hocker were all recognized as members of the Kentucky Association of Basketball Coaches' (KABC) All-12th Region Teams at the recent regional tournaments. Conway and Taylor helped lead the Patriots to a 45th District title and a runner-up finish in the 12th Region Tournament played at LCHS. They were both named to the All-Tournament Team. Conway and Taylor were among six area boys chosen in balloting by regional coaches. Also named from the area were Hagen Tyler and Jeremiah Bell of Boyle

County, Will Hager of Mercer County and Cody Woolridge of Danville. Hocker was the lone Lady Patriot voted onto the 15-member All-12th girls team. Hocker was a key player in leading the Lady Patriots to a 45th District championship. She scored 30 points in Lincoln's two regional tournament games at Pulaski County, including getting 19 points and 21 rebounds in Lincoln's semifinal loss to eventual champion Mercer County. Hocker was named to the All-Tournament Team. She was one of seven area players making the girls team. The other players from the area were Cameron McPherson of Danville, Kalin Bottoms and Emmie Harris of Boyle County, and Catheryne Claunch, Heidi Huffman and Seygan Robins of Mercer County. The KABC Coach of the Year for boys was Lincoln's own Jeff Jackson and the girls Coach of the Year honor went to Chris Souder of Mercer County. The regional players of the year were Boyle's Hagen Tyler and Danville's Cameron McPherson.

The All-12th Region Teams are:
BOYS
Jeremiah Bell, Boyle Co.; Trey Blevins, Wayne Co.; Jacob Conway, Lincoln Co.; Brooks Ely, West Jessamine; Dylan Gaskins, Southwestern; Will Hager, Mercer Co.; Adam Isaacs, Southwestern; Sam Pensol, Rockcastle Co.; Sean Ross, Pulaski Co.; Hayden Smith, East Jessamine; Corey Stearns, Wayne Co.; Timmy Taylor, Lincoln Co.; Hagen Tyler, Boyle Co.; Peyton

FIRST-YEAR Lincoln tennis player Roland Taylor got his inaugural season off to a winning start, getting back-to-back singles wins in matches with Southwestern and Garrard County. Taylor won 6-4 in the Patriots’ season-opener at Southwestern Monday and followed that with an 8-1 win at home against Garrard County.

ily defeated Abrams 8-1.

Tuesday’s loss to Garrard was the second straight loss for the Patriots. The Lincoln boys opened their season Monday at Southwestern, as did the Lincoln girls, and neither team could pull out a win.

The Lady Patriot netters nearly pulled off a win before being edged by the host Lady Warriors 5-4. But the Warriors posted a more convincing 7-2 win over the Patriots.

Mallorie Cooper, Kaitlyn Lane and the doubles teams of Landrea Smith/ Peyton Lewis and Briana McKenzie/Lane all courted victory for the Lady Patriots in Monday’s close match.

Cooper scored the only shutout in the match, beating Taylor Munsey 6-0 at the five seed. Lane picked up a 7-5 singles win over Teagan Waters at four. In doubles play, Smith and Lewis beat Andrea Martinez and Mariah Garcia 9-8 after a 7-4 tiebreaker at the one seed and McKenzie and Lane slammed Waters and Muncey 6-1 in the second-seeded match.

“The girls played a very good match with some very close games,” said Lewis. “Mallorie Cooper stepped up big and played very well in her match.”

Lasure and Taylor notched the only boys wins for Lincoln against Southwestern. Lasure beat Southwestern’s Henry Phan 8-4 at the one seed while Taylor downed Spencer Brainard 6-4 at four.

Lasure and Taylor could not continue their winning ways in their play at the one seed in doubles. The pair lost to the players they defeated in singles play, Phan and Brainard, by a score of 8-4.

“Everyone in our region has had to deal with the weather. These first few matches are like practice, since we haven’t had much,” Lewis said. “Ethan really played well tonight as he is our number 1, which is a new spot. He handled it really well tonight. Newcomer Roland Taylor played very well in his first match ever.”

Pursuant to a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Lincoln Circuit Court entered September 26, 2014, in the above-styled civil action, the undersigned Master Commissioner will sell the following real property located at 250 South Loop Drive, Stanford, Lincoln County, Kentucky, at the front door, Lincoln County Courthouse, on Friday, March 27, 2015, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as said property can be sold, said property being more particularly described as follows:

Being Lot No. 22, Unit 5, Block E, Dix River Estates Subdivision, as shown by plat of record in Plat Book 3, Page 45, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office to which reference is hereby made for a more particular description.

This being the same property acquired by Doug Smith and Joy Smith, his wife, by deed from Michael B. Clem Et Ux dated January 2, 2002, of record in Deed Book 322, Page 1, Lincoln County Court Clerk's Office.

The above described real property will be sold and conveyed subject to such valid and existing easements, restrictions, reservations, conditions, covenants and limitations apparent or of record in the chain of title.

The sale of the above real property will be made on a credit of thirty (30) days time with the privilege extended to the purchaser of paying the entire purchase price, or any part in excess of ten percent (10%) thereof, in cash at the time of the sale. If the sale be made on credit, the purchaser shall pay to the Master Commissioner immediately at the time of the sale ten percent (10%) of the total sale price and execute bond for the balance due in thirty (30) days, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the date of sale until paid, with a good and sufficient surety thereon; and the bond shall be secured by a lien upon said property sold which shall have the full force and effect of a judgment. The purchaser may pay the purchase price money due on the bond with accrued interest at any time before maturity.

The real property described herein is to be sold at the time and place stated; and shall be sold free and clear of all liens, indebtedness, interests and claims of the parties hereto, subject to any and all applicable statutory rights of redemption.

All delinquent ad valorem taxes, if any, interest and penalties will be paid out of the proceeds of said sale. The purchaser will be responsible for payment of the 2015 ad valorem taxes. Possession of the real property will be given to the purchaser with the delivery of the deed of conveyance thereto.

The purpose of this sale is to satisfy the judgment of the Lincoln Circuit Court in the above-styled action in favor of Plaintiff in the total sum of $116,478.28 as authorized and provided in said Judgment.

For further information concerning the above sale contact: Hon. Philip S. George, III, Attorney for Plaintiff, Nielson & Sherry, PSC, 639 Washington Avenue, Newport, KY 41071, Tel. #859-655-8430.

FARM FACTS

By Dan Grigson
Lincoln County Extension Office

Hay and pasture notes

know you are going full speed ahead with your farming chores, sometimes we get so busy we forget to take care of some things. For that reason, I am going to just touch on some reminders for you to keep in your memory bank as you take to the fields in high gear.

Sowing Clover – you still have time to make seedings of clover, but it’s almost too late for top-dress seeding. For renovation, this late it is better to disk up 60 percent of the grass, then broadcast the seed and cultipack or drag the field down. The other option is to spray the grass down with a herbicide and no-till seed the clover.

Pasture Fertilization – I encourage you to do a soil test, but here is a rule of thumb since pasture fertilization needs to be done today to get the most benefit. You may want to put on 100 lbs of urea, 100 lbs of 60 percent potash, and 75 lbs of DAP per acre on your grass fields to push out higher yields.

This will pay off big time in better grazing. You can run more cattle or bale more hay. If your pasture is a grass and clover pasture, then use 100 pounds of DAP and 100 pounds of 60 percent potash per acre.

Hay Field Fertilization – It would be best to apply fertilizer by a soil test but without one, I would suggest the following: alfalfa 125 lbs of DAP per acre and 250 lbs of muriate of potash per acre and boron; Clover/grass 100 lbs of DAP and 150 lbs of muriate of potash per acre; Grass only 100 lbs of urea, 100 lbs of 60 percent potash, and 100 lbs of DAP per acre. When should you apply this fertilizer? The real answer is late February, but today’s answer is “today”. Get it on quickly so it will have time to increase your hay yields.

KEEP CATTLE OFF PASTURE A FEW MORE DAYS

Cattle love that new grass growth and they can’t wait to get out there and graze. But, producers you need to be patient and keep those cattle contained on sacrifice fields a little longer. We are a few more weeks away from when cattle should be turned out to pasture. The tendency in early spring is to let the cows go out and starting picking and then the cows will nibble the grass into the ground. That reduces pasture productivity the rest of the year and thins down your stand. It is always best to wait in the spring until the grass in your pasture has an average height of six inches before beginning to graze. It should be “shoe top” high before grazing. Graze down to ankle high, then rotate to the next field. Be patient, give the grass a chance to get the right start and be productive all season.

PASTURE WEED CONTROL

Thistles, buttercup, chickweed, purpose deadnettle, poison hemlock and dandelions are all growing in pasture fields now. March and early April is the easiest time to kill them. Spray rigs are now available for rent to help you easily spray your pastures. Southern States Stanford has a pasture sprayer for rent. The Farm Bureau Equipment Rental Program has a pasture sprayer for rent and it is available through Buddy Pence, one of the rental agents Lincoln County Farm Bureau Federation. Some of the area farm equipment dealers rent these also. These sprayers have no booms but rather a broadcast nozzle head on the back that sprays 25’-30’ of pasture in a pass.

2-4D and Crossbow are good and economical products to use to kill these weeds. They will kill some of your red clover and some of the white clover, but in some fields the weeds are so thick, it is time to sacrifice some clover to get the weeds under control.

Sales records smashed at 2015 Beef Expo

Winter Storm Thor was no match for enthusiastic buyers who shattered records at the 29th annual Kentucky Farm Bureau Beef Expo March 6-8 at the Kentucky Exposition Center.

Sales totaled $1.39 million, breaking last year’s record of $1.14 million and crossing the $1 million barrier for the fourth consecutive year. The 445 lots averaged $3,127, beating out the previous record of $2,547 in 2014.

“It means a lot that so many people were willing to endure tremendous amounts of snow and record cold to buy and show at the Beef Expo,” Agriculture Commissioner James Comer said. “This has become one of the premier beef cattle events in the country.”

The sale topper was the reserve champion Angus female, which Emilee Taylor of Lexington bought for $16,500.

The grand champion Angus female fetched the second-highest bid of $11,200 from David Hobbs of Vine Grove.

Seven lots sold for $10,000 or more. The 49 Simmental lots averaged $4,473 to lead all breeds.

The Gelbvieh sale averaged $4,394 for 28 head and the Angus sale averaged $4,332 for 42 head.

Consignors from 18 states brought animals to the Beef Expo.

The junior show attracted 379 head, of which 154 were Kentucky animals. A youth judging contest and a trade show also took place during the Beef Expo.

Major sponsors of the Beef Expo were the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, Kentucky Farm Bureau, and Farm Credit Mid-America

Kentucky named to Farm-to-School initiative

Kentucky is one of three states that will partner with The Walmart Foundation and the National Farm to School Network to expand efforts to get more local foods into schools, the network announced.

“Kentucky has led the way in helping schools locate and purchase local foods for their students while at the same time helping farmers find new markets for their products,” Agriculture Commissioner James Comer said. “We’re grateful to the National Farm to School Network and The Walmart Foundation for recognizing Kentucky’s leadership and awarding private-sector funding to help us provide our students with fresh, nutritious local foods.”

The Seed Change project will “jump start” programs that get local foods into schools and enhance food education for more than 1.8 million school children in Kentucky, Louisiana, and Pennsylvania, the National Farm to School Network wrote in a news release.

A total of 100 farm-to-school sites in the participating states each will receive $5,000 grants to implement farm-to-school activities, the network’s statement said. Applications for mini-grants will be accepted later this spring. Two model school districts in each state will serve as demonstration sites and training hubs for other school districts.

The three-state initiative is funded by a grant from the Walmart Foundation.

The news release points out that more than 12.5 million American children and adolescents between 2-19 years old are obese. More than 5 billion lunches and more than 2.2 billion school breakfasts were served in U.S. schools in 2013, the network said.

The Kentucky Department of Agriculture’s Farm to School Program connects school food service systems with local farmers and food producers. The program helps students learn to appreciate the importance of local foods and grow into well-informed consumers who demand local foods as adults.

Kentucky schools in the KDA program served local foods to an estimated 364,000 children in approximately 702 schools in the 2011-2012 school year. A total of 84 school districts are members of Kentucky Proud.

The Kentucky Farm to School Program runs the Farm to School Junior Chef competition, in which high school cooking teams throughout the Commonwealth compete for scholarships while learning basic cooking techniques and being educated about the importance of local foods.

For more information on the program, go to www.kyagr.com or contact Tina Garland at (502) 382-7505 or tina.garland@ky.gov.

March 31 deadline for new safety net program quickly approaching

March 31 is the last day to make several important choices on federal safety net programs that could make a big difference for their farms through 2018.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture’s (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) is urging farmers and landowners across the nation to finalize their decisions by March 31 on updating crop yield histories and reallocating base acres for new safety net programs established by the 2014 Farm Bill, known as Agriculture Risk Coverage (ARC) and Price Loss Coverage (PLC).

Updated yields and base acre reallocations could help improve a farmer’s potential to recover payments when a weather disaster or unexpected changes in the marketplace negatively affects their income.

March 31 is also the last day to decide which program – ARC or PLC – is the right one for their operation.

Each program provides unique protections. The best choice will depend on factors specific to their individual farm.

FSA, in cooperation with a number of universities, has provided online Web-based tools, found at www.fsa.usda.gov/arc-plc to help make this important decision. The online tools have already helped more than half a million farmers so far.

If you have not yet considered your PLC or ARC options, take the time today to explore the web tools and then contact your FSA county office if you have questions.

If you don’t make a decision by the March 31 deadline, then you will be assigned Price Loss Coverage, the default program, and lose payments for losses incurred in 2014. However, if you complete your ARC or PLC election by the deadline, you will be protected against 2014 price or revenue losses.

Don’t let this opportunity slip by. Finalize your yield or base acre decisions, complete those conversations between landowners and producers, and conduct your final reviews to determine how ARC or PLC can help you. Avoid that end-of-the-month rush, and make an appointment today. Your Kentucky FSA county staff is standing by ready to help.

Fairview Baptist Church News

By Shelby Lakes

Bro. Johnny Baker’s message on Sunday was taken from John 3: 14-18 and other passages. He said this message was looking toward Easter and the cross. This is a simple text that all should understand in which Jesus and Nicodemus are having a discussion about being born again, Bro. Johnny said.

In these passages Jesus used the example of Moses obeying an order from God, lifting a serpent upon a pole in Numbers 21: 8 so the people would be healed as being like Jesus when He was to be lifted upon a cross so the world through Him could be saved. There was no escape from the cross for Jesus, Bro. Johnny said, and He did not look for one.

Bro. Johnny said Jesus went to the cross for the salvation of the world and to be a light for his believers.

Do you remember before you were saved, Bro. Johnny asked, and the condemnation that was upon you? Bro. Johnny asked. But you escaped.

All this was done because God loves us, Bro. Johnny said. Many of us knew John 3: 16 when we were growing up, but today many don’t know what they need to be saved from. Jesus came to save every man, woman, and child, but many will remain condemned because they will not believe.

“You know someone who needs Jesus,” Bro. Johnny said.

“Why are so many people entering into many religions,” Bro. Johnny asked. “Because they are looking for a way to Heaven. But the scriptures say salvation is found in no one else but Jesus. Just as Jesus had to go to the cross, you must go to the cross to be saved.”

Bro. Johnny asked for prayers for the Haiti team that is leaving for Haiti this week to preach the gospel to lost souls who are spiritually hungry, and also for the Haitians who need Jesus and God’s people there who work in the depth of poverty.

157 +/- Acre Farm
The Estate of
Mrs. Gladys Campbell

Saturday - March 21st, 10:00 A.M.

1065 Thornhill Lane - Stanford

Directions:
From Stanford take KY Hwy 78 west approximately 3 miles and turn right onto Thornhill Lane. Follow Thornhill Lane to the end to the auction site.

We have been authorized to sell at ABSOLUTE Auction, this very desirable piece of property located at 1065 Thornhill Lane, just outside of Stanford. This property features 157 acres of farmland with this 4 bedroom, 2 bath home (shown below), 2 outbuildings, and a mobile home. This is a split level home, in need of some TLC, with an eat-in kitchen, beautiful fireplace & 2 car attached garage. Conveniently located close to Stanford & Danville, this farm also has an abundance of wildlife. In the heart of Lincoln County, this property would make a terrific location for your next home. Public water available. This could be a once in a lifetime opportunity, acreage like this does not come along often so don't miss your chance to purchase this terrific piece of land.

Playing is learning for children

By Lea Wooldridge
Early Learning Mentor/Coach

All children are born learning. From the minute they enter the world; their brains are making connections and soaking up experiences that will later shape their success.

To a child, playing is learning. Children can nurse a stuffed animal back to health or turn an empty paper towel roll into a dragon-slaying sword? Behind these seemingly fun activities, learning is taking place. Dramatic play is what we often refer to as pretend play or make-believe. It allows children to play a role or re-enact familiar activities or stories. It is unstructured and child-driven unlike entertainment-driven play like video games.

When kids play, they develop important skills. Children learn social and self-regulation skills such as sharing, negotiating turns, empathy and sticking to the “script” when they role-play. Dramatic play is physical and children have a chance to strengthen motor skills by using both small and large muscles to complete tasks like pouring water into teacups. This type of play can also be language rich. They imitate familiar people, like a teacher, a doctor, or other community helpers.

Play helps set the foundation for learning math and reading. During a pretend game of “grocery store”, children may practice math concepts like sorting and classifying the fruits and vegetables or “writing” checks or receipts. Children also learn the different purposes of text from maps to menus at a restaurant.

Although children seem to come hard wired for play, they need help learning how to play. Here are some play tips to keep in mind: Model how to pretend play with props by acting out scenes like using a block as a phone. Choose everyday activities to act out like pretending to brush a stuffed animal’s teeth. Pretend to be someone your child knows. “Let’s pretend we are mommy driving the car.” Provide abstract props like cardboard boxes or empty gift wrap rolls. Let them lead the play. Play a secondary character and let them tell you your role. Use a favorite story your child is familiar with as a basis of play. Ask questions like, “What do you think would happen if...?”

Turn off the TV to reduce distractions. Give plenty of uninterrupted time to play. Play is the work of the child.

Ms. Roxanne, Ms. Stephanie and their children are ready to board the classroom rocket for a pretend ride into outer space.

Ms Rhonda and Ms. Lisa join their children in the dramatic play center where they enjoy a pretend camping trip.
